

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

This trial edition of a union list of sets of collected works by various authors on European History is in effect an exhibit to the report of the Committee on Bibliography of the American Historical Association, and is published for the Committee. It is intended, in case support by the libraries and individuals will warrant, to publish next year a regular edition, corrected and edited by Dr. Lichtenstein, Librarian of Northwestern University and Curator of the Hohenzollern collection in the Harvard University Library, who has become in a unique sense the chief American expert in this line of books, and whose casual memoranda have contributed much to the improvement of this edition over the proof edition printed in March.

How nearly impossible it is to make even a fairly accurate edition of a work of this sort on the bibliographical side at this time will be readily seen from the facts stated in the report of the Committee in 1911 that there were then some 300 out of the 2,197 works mentioned that could not be found in this country at all, and nearly 1,000 sets which could be examined at first hand only by going to very scattered and distant points. On the other hand, this is perhaps the most intricate of all classes of entry matter to handle without referring to the books themselves—periodicals, even, hardly being excepted. Many of the co-operating libraries have sent memoranda for revision of the first check list or the proof edition, both of which were issued quite without proof corrections, and some four hundred such corrections have been made in this edition, but it has not seemed worth while or possible, without delaying the issue, to improve farther before issuing, and farther painstaking would contribute little to the immediate practical end to be served by the list. The irregular form too has not been changed, since the retention is an aid to prompt publication and a mechanical convenience for farther editing and insertion. Each page is, as in the case of the proof edition, in general one-half page of the original check list with the varying amounts of insertion matter.

Besides corrections, this edition contains eighteen additional titles of the more important sets overlooked in previous printings and nearly two thousand additions to the located copies. On the other hand, however, about a score of duplicate or faulty titles have been withdrawn.

The thanks of the Committee and of all historical students are due to the libraries which have so cordially co-operated. The considerable amount of work implied on the part of each co-operating library naturally made some hesitate at first and until the meaning and usefulness to both libraries and historical students was fully explained and understood, but the universally cordial and even enthusiastic response, after the matter was understood, has been most gratifying.

The check list was sent out last year (1911) and the results compiled and presented as a report at the annual meeting of the American Historical Association at Buffalo in December of that year. Some of the figures and inferences of this report will be found following this preface. The Check List, uncorrected as to bars, but with indication of location of copies added, as in the present edition, was issued in March as a proof edition.

The main objects served by such a check list are: (1) Guidance of research students to the places where they can consult needed books, (2) facilitation of inter-library loans, and (3) service as purchase list by showing librarians and historical students just the points which most need strengthening. The amount of use of this list on the first two counts could be judged by experience, but as to the third matter there was not much experience from which to judge.

It was the hope of the Committee that the circulation of the list would result at least in somewhat strengthening the apparatus for historical work in American libraries, but the prompt and large response went beyond their utmost expectations. Harvard, Yale, Columbia, and the Library of Congress, have perhaps been most active in supplying their lacks, but the greatest public libraries and many of the university libraries, especially libraries about Chicago, have been alert, with the results that several thousand additional copies are indicated in this edition, the total number of copies which cannot be consulted in America has been reduced, and the general situation in several geographical localities has been distinctly improved. In the report of last year, Harvard, with 1,267 out of 2,197 sets, had already a considerably larger number than the Library of Congress, its nearest runner up. At once on the issue of the Check List in January, 1911, it began purchasing new sets, and, after the report in December, it continued the careful searching of its libraries for copies, so that before issuance of the proof edition in March of this year (1912), it had sent in additional titles, bringing the number of its sets up to about 1,600. Since that time some three hundred more sets have been added, so that, at the present time, Harvard alone has more titles than there were altogether in all American libraries at the time of the report a year ago. It now lacks less than 300 sets, while it was reported a year ago that there were 313 sets which were not to be found anywhere in this country. Yale, too, has very greatly increased the number of sets reported over the number reported last year.

The most significant fact of the statistics of last year remains, however, substantially unchanged—the fact that only ten or a dozen libraries have as many as 10% of the collections, and that out of 786 institutions which profess to do work of college grade, only about fifty libraries have as much as 1%. The actual situation is even much worse than appears from the figures since two or three inexpensive volumes of illustrative source books for class-room use are in the list through inadvertance, and undoubtedly swell the record of the minor institutions. It is safe to say that a majority even of the institutions included in the Babcock list have less than one-tenth of 1% of these sets, and yet these are titles which have been gathered from actual references and are the books which are liable to meet any men engaged in historical research at every turn.

The moral drawn from this last December as to the need of some organized co-operation to meet the want, which cannot by any possibility be met individually by each library, has become even more pointed by the experience of the year, and especially by the rapidly growing prices of the more useful and scarcer sets here listed.

The problem of the distribution of the burden of lending in the inter-library loan system has also been increased by the list in direct proportion as it is used. The list itself, however, affords a certain means of relief and the Committee feels that it owes to Harvard, Yale, Columbia, the Library of Congress, the University of Pennsylvania, Cornell, and the other large libraries which have so freely contributed in the inter-library loan system, to urge on historical students borrowing from other libraries that they borrow always, so far as possible, when using out of this list, from the smaller libraries whenever they are shown to have copies. Some of the libraries, like the New York Public, cannot lend out, and in many cases the larger libraries ought not to lend many of the sets here indicated, even out of their library building, as they are so likely to be called on at any moment for use in verifications, if not for research use. It is in fact in the interest of scholarship that some one large library in every geographical center should make its collection as nearly complete as possible, and not lend out at all (except duplicates) although it is to be greatly hoped that, while the present poverty of our libraries in research books continues, a liberal policy may prevail as to the large class of books of which the probable local use is only very occasional on terms, of course, requiring instant return in case of need.

It becomes pretty clear that a thorough practical solution of the present problem for historical students involves: (1) Better knowledge of the location of books that we already have, (2) better geographical distribution of those that shall be purchased, and (3) cheaper transportation of books. The ideal solution would be the provision of the Library of Congress with means to systematically provide five depository centers each with a reference copy and lending copy of all the more important books not otherwise provided for in those centers and extending the franking privilege of transportation. Something less than this, however, might certainly be reached by organized co-operation among the groups of libraries as they now stand.

Ninety-four libraries co-operate in this list, and these include nearly all libraries of the first and second importance in this particular line, as well as quite a number which have taken the pains to co-operate, but which contribute only two or three titles each. A very few libraries of importance, through difficulty of their cataloguing situation or some inadvertence, as on the part of the University of Wisconsin, are not included in the trial edition, but will, it is hoped, be included in the revised edition, if it is published. The names of the libraries are arranged geographically under the titles in groups which correspond to those used by the United States Bureau of Education, except for splitting the North Atlantic Division and putting adjoining Canadian libraries with the respective groups, as follows: (1) New England, (2) Middle States, (3) South Atlantic Division, (4) South Central Division, (5) North Central Division, (6) Western Division. They are arranged alphabetically under the groups.

A copy of the proof edition was sent gratis to each of the co-operating libraries, and a supplement of the additional titles with their locations has also been sent gratis, but it will be necessary to make a charge for the trial edition. The regular price for this will be $2.00 net, but co-operating libraries may each purchase one copy only at $1.00. These may be obtained of the Chairman of the Committee.

E. C. RICHARDSON, Chairman.

Extracts from the report of the Committee on Bibliography of the American Historical Association, December 1911.

This check list contains the titles of 2,197 collections on European history, comprising about 25,000 volumes. It was sent out to 305 libraries—distributed as follows: Eastern section 86, Middle 77, South Atlantic 24, South Central 11, North Central 83, Western 24. All these libraries contain over 30,000 volumes each.

Answers were received from 162 libraries of which 83 libraries sent check lists as follows: Eastern section 22, Middle 26, South Atlantic 6, North Atlantic 22, Western 7. The South Central section did not report any copies.

Eighty-three libraries are thus represented in the edition as prepared. Of these only one has as many as half the collections, 16 have less than five sets each, 26 have less than one-half of one per cent., 33 less than one per cent., 56 less than two per cent., 64 less than five per cent, 74 less than ten per cent., leaving thus only nine libraries of the 83 with more than ten per cent., or 220 out of the 2,200 collections. These nine will, however, undoubtedly be increased to twelve when delayed returns from five others are received.

Although 1,884 collections are to be found in one or another of these 83 libraries, 437 can be found each only in one library, 328 in two libraries, 232 in three, 200 in four, 153 in five, and 90 in six. Three hundred and eighty-one works are to be found each in from seven to 20 libraries, 39 in from 20 to 40 libraries and four in 40 or more libraries; one being in 43, one in 47, one in 51, and one in 61 libraries.

In the matter of quantity, thus, it appears that on an average the libraries reporting contain about one in 20 of the sets, but excluding the nine or twelve largest, the remaining large libraries of this country contain, each, but one in 50. The smallest deficiency of any library is 930 out of 2,197 sets and 313 are not found in any library.

It is clear from this situation that no library is self-sufficient—even Harvard lacking 930 sets and all but 12 lacking on the average 2,153 out of 2,197 works. Even as good colleges as Amherst and Williams, having but 26 and 17 respectively, lack 2,171 and 2,180 respectively out of 2,197, while probably 700 of the 786 institutions doing work of college grade in the United States are worse off than these.

On the other hand, however, it is equally clear that these libraries are by way of being able to do a good deal to help one another. Altogether these libraries supply 1,884 sets. Even Harvard can thus find 617 of her 930 lacking sets somewhere in America. Harvard is thus by way of lending 1,267 sets and borrowing 617 sets, the Library of Congress of lending 917 and borrowing 913, and all others need to borrow more than they can lend. This fact has laid a pretty heavy burden on Harvard in the past, but with the use of such lists as this she should in the future be able to put off much of the burden on smaller libraries.

Adding estimates for the five other libraries gives in round numbers a total of 10,700 copies in 88 libraries, distributed: Eastern section, 22 libraries, 3,250 copies; Middle, 28 libraries, 4,100 copies; South Atlantic, 6 libraries, 1,060 copies; North Central, 24 libraries, 1,750 copies; Western, 8 libraries, 540 copies.

Analyzing a little more closely it appears that 267 works can be found in New England only, 126 in the Middle States only, 90 in the South Atlantic section only, 6 in the North Central only, and one in the Western only. New England must draw on other sections for 221 works and all other sections draw on it for 267.

On the other hand, however, in some cases where there is want in one section there is superfluity in another. New England has for example two or three copies each of 39 works which cannot be found in any other section and the Middle States have two to four copies each of 12 works found in no other section. Again, taking the North Atlantic States together, it appears that there are 348 works which can be found in no other section of the country, but of which within this section there are from two to nine copies each; 65 having three copies, 55 four copies, 25 five copies, eleven six copies and eleven 7 copies.

The practical problem which caused this list starts from the facts: (1) That no American library contains all the sets which may be needed by any historical worker in his work, (2) that the co-operation between libraries in the matter of inter-library loan is seriously limited by lack of knowledge as to where copies are located, (3) that the desultory attempt of individual libraries to supply lacks by purchase results in waste from unnecessary duplication and competition for copies, (4) that the geographical distribution of present books is bad.

The conclusions from the figures are: (1) That the grounds were amply justified and that a list in fact helps on each count, (2) that it is neither to be expected nor desired that every working library should contain every set, (3) that efficiency and economy require that the co-operative finding-list method should be extended to all works which are not to be found in practically every library of 50,000 volumes, (4) that full solution of the problem requires at least one lending copy of each work in each geographical section and very great reduction in the cost of transportation.

THE EFFECT OF THE CRYSTALLINITY OF POLYMER

It is well known that the crystallinity of a polymer has a profound effect on its properties. The crystallinity of a polymer is defined as the ratio of the weight of the crystalline phase to the total weight of the polymer. The crystallinity of a polymer can be determined by a number of methods, including X-ray diffraction, infrared spectroscopy, and density measurements. The crystallinity of a polymer can be controlled by a number of factors, including the rate of cooling, the presence of impurities, and the use of crystallization agents. The crystallinity of a polymer can have a significant effect on its mechanical, thermal, and electrical properties. For example, a polymer with a high crystallinity will have a higher melting point and a higher modulus than a polymer with a low crystallinity. The crystallinity of a polymer can also affect its solubility and its ability to be processed. In this paper, we will discuss the effect of the crystallinity of a polymer on its properties.

1. Introduction

The crystallinity of a polymer is a measure of the degree of order in the polymer chain. A polymer with a high crystallinity has a high degree of order, while a polymer with a low crystallinity has a low degree of order. The crystallinity of a polymer can be controlled by a number of factors, including the rate of cooling, the presence of impurities, and the use of crystallization agents. The crystallinity of a polymer can have a significant effect on its properties. For example, a polymer with a high crystallinity will have a higher melting point and a higher modulus than a polymer with a low crystallinity. The crystallinity of a polymer can also affect its solubility and its ability to be processed. In this paper, we will discuss the effect of the crystallinity of a polymer on its properties.
